OCEAN, BAR, BAY, DOCK AND RIVER

The steamer Alliance is due to sail this morning for Coos Bay points, from the Callender dock, at 6 o'clock, on the last voyage she will make to this port until May next. When she comes back she will have a brand new set of boilers. Captain Dunham goes back on his ship, but it is understood he is not a well man at all, and she is likely to be in charge of First Officer Black. Among her passengers from this port will be Mrs. Joe Phillips and her niece, Miss Griese, for Humboldt.

Last evening there arrived down from Portland, the steam launch "Requa" under command of Captain Hazen, formerly of this city, who brought her down for her owners. She is bound out for San Francisco, and is docked at the Callender, awaiting a favorable moment for departure. She is a swift and roomy passenger boat and thoroughly well built.

The steamer Saginaw, Captain Stream, arrived down the river yesterday en route to San Francisco, and went below with a view of slipping out over the bar. Before she accomplish this, however, one of her deck-hands, in handling one of her booms, had his head and ear badly scraped and bruised, and the steamer came back to the city, and the injured man was sent to St. Mary's hospital.

The steamship Boveric left out yesterday on her trans-Pacific trip. She took but 165,000 feet of lumber from this port, owing to the fact that she was full of air-spaces below, on account of the irregular lengths of the square timbers with which she was loaded, and was getting a bit "tender", so did not take the 250,000 feet from the Hammond Lumber Co.

There is quite a fleet due in this port today, including the steamship Breakwater from Coos; the British steamship Yeddo, from Comox, B. C.; the steamer Coaster, from San Francisco, and the steamer Olympic, from that port, this being the first visit of the latter vessel to this harbor.

The Kamm liner Lurline came down last night with the following well known Astorians on board, from Cathlamet: Hon. John C. McCue, C. L. Houston, C. H. Callender and Mr. Burlingame, of the Troy Laundry. When she went up at hour later, N. P. Sorenson was one of her passengers.

The steamer Bowdoin arrived in yesterday afternoon, from San Francisco and left up for Stella after a brief stay at the Callender dock.

The oil tank steamship Atlas of the S. O. fleet, will be in today, or tomorrow, to fill the local tanks of the company, which will require about 5000 barrels of the "slick stuff."

The steamer R. D. Inman was among the getaways from this port, for San Francisco, yesterday, being lumber cargoes as usual.

The oil tank steamer W. S. Porter came down stream yesterday and went to sea and the coast of California.

The steamer Asuncion entered port yesterday morning and went directly on to the metropolis with her load of fuel oil.

The steamship Rose City went to sea yesterday morning on the early flood, with good business on all decks. She took three steerage passengers from here.

The steamer Bee, the powder hooker, came down from Martin's Bluff yesterday, and cleared for Anacortes, Wash.

The oil tanker Atlas arrived from San Francisco last night with a cargo of oil which she will discharge at the tanks of the company here today.

San Francisco Man Loses $10,000 Through A Fake.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 27.—O. L. Cramer of this city, mentioned in the dairy kept by the gang of swindlers arrested by the postal authorities at Little Rock, Ark., yesterday, paid $10,000 for the pleasure of meeting them.

Cramer who owns the Malta Apartments here, was attracted by an advertisement published in a local paper in July 1906, telling of a big fortune that could be made by backing a world beating unknown pugilist. Cramer answered the advertisement and was told that by betting $10,000 on the unknown he could clean up a fortune, as a second rate fighter had been persuaded to lie down to him. The match was to be pulled off in Seattle and accompanied by his former book keeper, Cramer went north with the money. The fight was arranged as scheduled but it had scarcely proceeded two minutes when the unknown began to froth at the mouth. Cramer and Clute were told by the swindlers that the man they had backed was dying and they were advised to get away to escape arrest. Accepting $50 each they returned to San Francisco where it dawned upon them that they had been the victims of a huge swindle.

Somebody Once Said

That "Style in Clothes is a general effect which everybody notices, produced by careful exactness in a lot of details that nobody notices.

The general effect of dressy distinction is what men want; the strict accuracy of detail which produces that effect; they trust to others.

The length of the coat, the placing of the pockets and buttons, the lines of the lapel, shape and fit of the collar, these and a dozen other matters make up correct style.

But you must not expect to find this "Correct Style", this exactness in detail, in all lines of clothing in fact you will find them in very few lines and there is only one line where they are carried to their perfection That is the

MR. CURTIS, REFORMER, STILL AT WORK

BUT POSSIBLE "JOKER" IS SUGGESTED IN HIS PROPOSED ORDINANCE.

It is suggested that the ordinance which Mr. Curtis will introduce in the council Monday night, wherein it will be provided that the licenses of all saloonkeepers shall be forfeited in the event of conviction for any violation of the Sunday closing laws, is also to have an additional cause providing for the punishment of patrons who are convicted of drinking in any saloon on Sundays.

This seems a good provision, on the rule that what is sauce for the goose should be sauce for the gander, and men who drink in saloons on Sundays would seem equally in fault with the dram shop men.

But an objection is raised to this provision. It is suggested that it will nullify the whole ordinance, as without the testimony of persons who buy liquor, convictions would be impossible. The objection seems very strong; but analysis may possibly show that it is not so very objectionable, and surely would not necessarily nullify the whole ordinance. In the first place the customers, the persons who usually buy drinks in the saloons, will not give testimony anyway. If convictions are to be secured upon the testimony of regular patrons probably there never would be convictions. Generally speaking it may be quite safe to eliminate the regular patrons.

Then, on the other hand, the men who will go into saloons on Sundays for the purpose of securing testimony, need not fear any conviction as against them. Usually they act as agents of the district attorneys office; if not, the courts commonly protect the witness whose testimony is essential for greater convictions. For example, the laws provide for punishment of both bribe-giver and bribe-taker, yet it is virtually impossible to ever convict a bribe-giver without the enforced or voluntary testimony of the bribe-taker, who in this case is not permitted to remain silent on all points for fear of incriminating himself. The Pittsburgh bribe-takers are now experiencing this.

But on the whole it must be admitted there is force in the objection, but the same objection arises in many other laws, and is usually gotten around without difficulty. The same objection arises in gambling cases, where both proprietors and players are held, and no one ever thinks of looking to the regular players for the requisite testimony. On the whole it may appear to some that Mr. Curtis' ordinance, with this provision attached, is all right—if all right in other particulars. Of course the council may simply "sit" on the whole ordinance, deeming it unnecessary or inadvisable in any way. Others, too, talk of such an ordinance with a clause raising the license to $800 or $1000.

MAY BUY GRANT FARM.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Inspired by the widespread honors conferred upon President Lincoln, Representative Coudrey of Missouri has introduced a bill providing for the purchase by the government of the farm on which General Grant lived in St. Louis County, Mo., just before entering the army. The farm lies on the Missouri Pacific Railway and contains about 436 acres. Mr. Coudrey proposes that the farm shall be transformed into a National Park and his bill carries an appropriation of $400,000 for its purchase.

3 THOUSAND PEOPLE AFTER THE MONEY

MISER'S WEALTH INVITES THE CUPIDITY OF MANY—EIGHT RIGHTFUL HEIRS.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 27.—The massive that brought the total number of letters received by Judge L. F. Moss since the final settlement of the Salem Charles estate, up to three thousand arrived yesterday. Most of them have been written by people who wanted some of the $142,000 in cash found in a safe deposit box after the death of Charles. This case began about seven years ago and was settled so long ago that most people have forgotten all about it except those who tried to get some of the money left by that quaint old miser, Salem Charles, who went under the names of Charles Hill.

So far as the division of the money was concerned the case ended when the remainder of the estate, after all fees were paid was divided among eight heirs. But the many people throughout the world who had heard of the case are not satisfied. They have been very persistent, so much so that Judge Moss has given up hope of ever hearing the last of it.

While the case was in litigation Judge Moss was forced to employ four clerks to handle the correspondence. Letters arrived from every part of the globe, civilized and uncivilized. Up to the time of settlement they reached the astounding total of 15,000. These received since bring the grand total up to 18,000. There were 29 wills produced by claimants during the trial, none of which were genuine.

HE WAS TOO BUSY.

CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—M. Mangasarian has returned from Washington, where President Roosevelt refused to see him and hear the resolutions passed by the Independent Religious Society, asking the President to reconsider a criticism in one of his books of Thomas Paine. Mr. Mangasarian will tell his followers on Sunday just what he would have said to President Roosevelt had he been given an audience.

"The criticism," said Mr. Mangasarian "should not be permitted to remain on record as the utterance of a president of the United States. We will continue with our protest. It is too bad, however."
